

About KCCT - Currently MMU

KCCT (currently Multimedia University - MMU), The Rich Past The college was founded in 1948 as Central Training School catering for the training needs of the then East African Posts and Telecommunications administration. In 1992 it was upgraded to a College of higher learning and became fully autonomous subsidiary of the Kenya Posts and Telecommunication Corporation (KPTC). In 1999, when KPTC ceased to exist, KCCT became a fully owned subsidiary of Telkom Kenya Ltd. Over the years KCCT has been giving quality training programs to individuals and organizations, locally, regionally and internationally. In addition to other courses, the College offers high quality programs, Courses and Seminars, in areas of Management, Information Technology, Telecommunications Engineering and Operations, Postal and Courier Services Management. KCCT is Kenya's premier institute of higher learning in telecommunication engineering, human resource management, postal and courier services. As the giant trainer in telecommunication in the East African region, its clients come from all over Africa and beyond. KCCT has a long working relationship with international and national organizations such as PAFU, UPU, ITU, JICA, ESAMI, INTELSAT, KIM and CCCA. Its students' number varies from time to time and can reach a peak of 15,000 at one given time. The College does not go to full recess due to the nature of clients and their varied needs which demands the service throughout the year. However, the staff holiday and other breaks are taken as scheduled for each department. The College, which has since then change its name to Multimedia University College of Kenya (MMU), has 2 campuses: Mbagathi and City Centre Campus. Many of the courses offered lead to professional qualifications, which have national and international recognition. More recently Institutional partnerships have been sought with recognized universities both locally and internationally with a view to offering degree courses in the areas of Management and Computer Sciences, Business Administration, Telecommunications Engineering and Entrepreneurship. Multimedia University College of Kenya (MMU), Mbagathi campus is the main campus; it's 16kms South of Nairobi Town along Magadi road. It is Set on 115 hectares of land adjacent to Nairobi National Park. This campus has the capacity to accommodate 2000 people at a time in it's hostels. It also offers a world class conference hall.
